Exceeding Placement Goals • In the first three quarters of this year, NMSI has empowered Migrant and Seasonal Farmworker students, becoming a crucial support pillar for CAMP Projects nationwide. During this quarter, we exceeded our annual goal, placing 31 interns, highlighting our dedication to providing these students with promising opportunities. We are right on track to hit our year-end goals, staying firmly committed to empowering CAMP scholars all across the nation.

Strengthening Our Impact in the National HEP/CAMP Association • As of September 2023, we proudly celebrate our ongoing efforts, with a significant presence in the National HEP/CAMP Association’s network. We currently serve 25% of the 50+ affiliated universities and colleges, counting among them esteemed institutions like the University of Washington, University of South Florida, New Mexico State University, Oregon State University, Washington State University, SUNY Oneonta, Miami Dade College, St. Edward’s University, Valdosta State University, Crowder College, University of Idaho, Western Michigan University, and Michigan State University. Yet, our goal is to reach a larger number of CAMP students, and we are getting ready to create a greater impact next year by partnering with more universities and colleges.

Empowerment and Career Enhancement • We are dedicated to empowering CAMP scholars and boosting their career opportunities. In October, we are organizing a USDA webinar, focusing on Federal job applications. Simultaneously, we plan to expand our network at the ALPFA Regional Student Symposium, connecting with companies such as Mercedes-Benz Financial Services, Ally Financial Group, and Comerica.

Recognizing the rising demand for Professional Development services, including refining resumes and cover letters for 2024 internships, we are teaming up with employers to offer more resume workshops. It is all part of our mission to equip CAMP scholars with vital skills for a successful future.

Our Collective Dedication to Transformation • In closing, NMSI remains steadfast in its commitment to enhancing the lives of Migrant and Seasonal Farmworker students. We thank CoBank for their invaluable support as we strive to serve a growing network of CAMP Projects and expand the horizons of opportunities for CAMP scholars nationwide. Together, we are forging the path to a brighter future for these remarkable students. ❖
